Abstract The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week, 30-min, 3 times per week, low-impact aerobically and resistance training program on the health-related quality of life (HRQL) of older women. The study was a randomized, controlled trial. The subjects were 60 women aged 65 years and older, who were randomly assigned to either a control group or an exercise group. The exercise group performed a 12-week, 30-min, 3 times per week, low-impact aerobically and resistance training program. The control group performed no exercise. The HRQL was measured using the SF-36 questionnaire. The results showed that the exercise group had significantly higher scores than the control group on all eight dimensions of the SF-36 questionnaire. The exercise group also had significantly higher scores than the control group on the total score of the SF-36 questionnaire. The results suggest that a 12-week, 30-min, 3 times per week, low-impact aerobically and resistance training program can improve the HRQL of older women.
